

Exhibits I-1 and I-2

Displacements This Year and Estimated Displacements Next Year

Exhibit I-1 shows the number of elderly and non-elderly households displaced during the reporting year because of redevelopment activity other than the destruction or removal of units reported in Exhibit H-1. An example of a displacement reported in Exhibit I-1 would be a household permanently displaced in order to substantially rehabilitate the housing unit. Exhibit I-2 reports similar information about agency estimates of the number of displacements that may occur over the next reporting period.

For the reporting year, Exhibit I-1 shows that agencies displaced 32 households and that most (26) were non-elderly households. According to income category, the majority of displaced households were low income (18 were very low and 6 were low). Information on the number of dwelling units constructed toward meeting agencies' replacement needs, within the required four years, is contained in Exhibits E-1, F-3, and F-4.

Exhibit I-2 reflects estimates reported by 35 agencies about displacements expected to occur next year. For the next reporting year, agencies estimate displacing 630 households. Most households are expected to be non-elderly (577) and below moderate income (544).
